Poulsbo teenager makes waves with charity Seahawks art (VIDEO)

Written by Q13 Fox News

She's a 14-year-old with an impressive art portfolio, but it's Isabelle Dorr's most recent drawing that's making her into a household name. "It was hard getting the shape right," Isabelle said. A balanced marriage between a Seahawks logo and an eagle took about a week to perfect. Every line and every feather is Isabelle's work. She uses a digital art tablet to bring all the colors and shapes to life. . . continue reading

Radiologist's images expanding across county

Written by Ted Sooter/Kitsap Sun

The cordless phone Dr. Manfred Henne carries rarely stops ringing. The Poulsbo radiologist buzzes between exam rooms at his Poulsbo medical imaging practice, meeting with patients, administering scans and poring over results. Henne could easily do his job from behind a computer monitor, reviewing images and relaying results over . . . continue reading

Kitsap job market on the rebound

Written by Tad Sooter/Kitsap Sun

Employers like to take their time choosing new employees. Time is a luxury few can afford this year. With more companies hiring, competition for new hire is picking up in Kitsap County, said Kathryn Townsend, client relations manager for West Sound Workforce. "We're seeing people get offered jobs in the parking lot as they head back to their car," Townsend said. "I'm encouraging hiring managers to make decisions faster . . . continue reading
