Local coffee with a conscience

Written by Saint, NWCN

Most of us don't think about changing the world until we've had at least one cup of coffee. But a Poulsbo couple says that you put in that cup can have an even bigger impact than you would ever guess. Kelsey and Stacy Marshall own Grounds for Change. They import coffee grown organically and chemically free from countries like . . . continue reading

Kitsap seen as good market for expansion-minded banks

Written by Tad Sooter/Kitsap Peninsula Business Journal

First Federal Savings & Loan executives knew they'd be the new kids on Kitsap's banking block when they opened a Silverdale branch two years ago. "It was a risk moving into a market with competitors like Kitsap Bank," First Federal chief banking officer Kelly Liske said. Liske said the Port Angeles-based bank emphasized user-friendly banking technology to . . . continue reading

Girls on the Run is 'empowering girls and building confidence'

Written by Michelle Beahm/North Kitsap Herald

Girls on the Run of West Sound is "really about empowering girls and building confidence through running," said executive director Rachel Bearbower. Girls on the Run is an after-school program for girls in third through eighth grade. The program lasts for 10 weeks, with two lessons a week, and occurs twice a year, in spring and fall. . . . ## A friendship that will outlast the fame

Written by Leslie Kelly/North Kitsap Herald

Not many Poulsbo natives have strolled the red carpet. But Case Levenson has. So has his mother and his two sisters. And his friend Jonathan Evison. The 32-year-old Levenson is the motivation behind the character Trevor, a young man who has Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy, in Evison's book "The Revised Fundamentals of Caregiving." The book, which was released in 2012, is now a movie that premiered at the Sundance Film Festival . . . continue reading

Local executive hired as the director of operations for the Greater Poulsbo Chamber of Commerce

Written by Richard Walker/North Kitsap Herald

After a 26-day hiring process, the Greater Poulsbo Chamber of Commerce announced the appointment of E. Daniel Barry as its director of operation on March 16. As director of operations, Barry will oversee all elements of board governance, external marketing, strategic event planning, and staff management . . . continue reading
